

Flower Sun-Catcher

Supplies for the sun-catcher:

- Tissue paper
- A large flower template that can be cut out, inside and around the outside. I found mine on coloringpage.eu.
- Contact paper
- Scissors

Instructions for the sun-catcher:

1. First I found my flower and printed it out.
2. Then I took a black marker and went around the outside of the flower creating a thicker border so the flower could be cut out both inside and outside.
3. Cut the flower out around the outside edge.
4. Then cut out the inside, just leaving the complete black border.
5. Cut out two pieces of contact paper for each flower (large enough to fit the flower on).
6. Cut various colors of tissue paper into small squares.
7. Pull the backing off one piece of contact paper and lay the flower border, black side down, on the sticky contact paper.
8. Fill in the entire flower with tissue paper squares.
9. When your grandchild is satisfied with their colorful creation, pull the backing off the second piece of contact paper.
10. Place the contact paper on top of the tissue paper, sticky side down.
11. Then cut the extra contact paper off all around the outside edge of the flower.

To hang your sun-catcher:

- Small clear suction cup
  - Fishing line, thread or other small cord of some type
1. Place a hole in the top of your sun-catcher just big enough to get your fishing line or cord through. (Simple hack: thread a needle and push it through the sun-catcher and your line or cord will be pulled through with it.)
  2. Then tie the line, thread or cord into a knot on the back side large enough to hold it in place. If needed you can always put a small dot of glue also.
  3. Stick the suction cup on the window.
  4. Hang your sun-catcher!

(Or you can always go the easier route and just tape the flowers to your window, but with the suction cups, it can easily be moved around.)
